

GERARD CHALIAND

Ph.D.

The Battle for Eritrea

An Analysis of the Revolutionary Movement and the Present Struggle in the Horn of Africa through Lecture and Film.

Gérard Chaliand, Ph.D. (Sorbonne, 1975), is a leading French specialist in the study of modern revolutions. He has just returned from two months in the field with the Eritrean guerrillas and the Somalians studying the complex war that has re-oriented great power politics in Africa. Chaliand is the author of several important books including Revolution in the Third World: Myths and Prospects [Viking Press, 1977], Peasants of North-Vietnam (Penguin Books, 1970), and Armed Struggle in Africa (Monthly Review Press, 1969). He has been a visiting professor at Sir George Williams University, Harvard University, and U.C.L.A.

Friday, December 2
10:45 a.m.
Hall Building Room 435
1455 de Maisonneuve Blvd. W.

Sponsored by:

- Concordia History Society [SGW]
- Concordia International Affairs Society
- Concordia Department of History